THE HOGARTH ESSAYS

Essays

Mrs. Innes's book for young people "The Story of the League of Nations" had a great success. Placed on the L.C.C. list of books recommended for use in schools, it is now extensively used in schools and League of Nations study circles. In that book she dealt with the history of the League, but experience has shown that there is also room for a book which tells, in detail and in simple language, how the League actually works in practice.

HOW THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS WORKS. Told for Young People. By Kathleen Innes, B.A. Crown 8vo. Limp cloth, 1s. 6d.

This book gives a clear and concise account of the previous history of international arbitration and its present position under the League of Nations. It shows the relation between the principle of arbitration and the problem of preventing war. The book will be invaluable to all students of international affairs and, in particular, of the League.

THE VICTORY OF REASON. A Study of Arbitration. By W. Arnold-Forsster. Crown 8vo. 88 pp. Limp cloth, 2s.

Political, Historical, or Educational.

Fiction

TURBOTT WOLFE. By William Plomer. 7s. 6d.

This is a first novel of remarkable power by a new writer. Mr. Plomer has spent several years in Zululand, and gives a very vivid picture of the relations between the English settlers and the natives. But the book does not depend for its interest upon its reality; it shows imaginative gifts of a high order, and proves Mr. Plomer a novelist of unusual promise.

THE QUESTION MARK. By M. Jaeger. 7s. 6d.

The Socialist Utopia of fiction is usually peopled with paragons of virtue and wisdom. This book tries the experiment of peopling it with human beings, with curious and unexpected results.

THE EDUCATION OF A YOUNG MAN, in Twelve Lessons. By Marius Lyle. 7s. 6d.

The story of this novel is told in the first person by a young woman, who finds herself in the country in a family the members of which are remarkable in character. The characters are vivid and original, the atmosphere strange and haunting, while the story is powerful and exciting.

Biography

CASTLES IN THE AIR. By Viola Tree. Illustrated. MEDIUM 8vo. 18s.

Miss Viola Tree gives an account of her experiences in Milan when she was training to become an opera singer. The story of her hopes and fears is given with great charm and freshness, largely from her own diaries and letters written at the time. As her father's daughter she knew most of the distinguished people of the day, and thus gives an intimate picture of life in a brilliant circle, just before the war.
