GENERAL LITERATURE

HUGH FANSON FAUSSET

John Donne

A study in discord. 'A book which does justice, poetically, to all that he did and all that he was.' Morning Post. With four colotype portraits. 12s. 6d. net

GAMALIEL BRADFORD

Samuel Pepys

Mr. Bradford bases his book on the famous diary, and contrives to illuminate the whole of Pepys's long and eventful existence. In short, he brings Pepys to life.

Illustrated. 12s. 6d. net

J. MIDDLETON MURRY

To the Unknown God

In this volume of essays, the most personal he has yet written, Mr. Murry is mainly engaged in an effort to clear the path for a renewal of the religious consciousness. 6s. net

C. & A. WILLIAMS ELLIS

The Pleasures of Architecture

An attempt to arouse appreciation of the at present much neglected art of architecture. 'The best book on its subject for the general reader which has ever been written.' Morning Post. Illustrated. Second Impression.

10s. 6d. net

ANDRE SIEGFRIED

Post War Britain

The author is a French economist who has made the British Empire his particular study. He is sympathetic to our difficulties, but he has the detached view-point of the foreigner, and it is largely for this reason that his book is so important. 10s. 6d. net

H. V. LANCHESTER

Talks on Town Planning

This book takes a glance round the divers aspects of Town Planning as a remedy for the failure in our social order. 4s. 6d. net

DAVID W. BONE

The Lookoutman

A book about ships for young and old. 'For the last thirty years ships have been the most lovely works of art made in this country. Captain Bone proves this in page after page of vivid description.' JOHN MASEFIELD. Illustrated by H. HUDSON RODMELL. Cheaper edition. 5s. net

Days Among the Pike and Perch. Illus. 3s. 6d. net

My Fishing Days and Fishing Ways. Illustrated.

3s. 6d. net

ALFRED P. MORGAN

The Boys Book of Science and Construction

The author has divided his subject into nine chapters, each dealing with a definite section of scientific investigation, such as chemistry, sound, mechanics, etc. A boy will learn far more from this than from any ordinary text book. New and cheaper edition. 7s. 6d. net

GEORGE GLASGOW

Mac Donald as Diplomatist

A full record of Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's dealings with foreign Powers during his nine months of office. 'An able, orderly, and complete record. Sure to be widely read.' Observer. 6s. net

LAURENCE HOUSMAN

Trimblerigg

A new Jekyll and Hyde story, in which, though the spiritual alterations are swift and startling, no change of outward appearance takes place. It will, we fear, scandalize many, infuriate a few, and cause unholy delight to others. But it is certainly a book which everybody will want to read, even if they have to put it in the fire immediately afterwards.

With a frontispiece portrait by E. X. KAPP.

2nd Impression. 9s. net

THE WORKS OF JAMES JOYCE

A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man: a novel.

7s. 6d. net

Exiles: a play. 6s. net

Chamber Music: poems. 3s. 6d. net.

MR. H. G. WELLS in The Nation, reviewing A Portrait of the Artist as a Young Man, says, 'It is a book to buy and read and lock up, but it is not a book to miss.

A most memorable novel.'

MARY WEBB

Precious Bane

A novel of Shropshire in which old superstitions and customs are prominent. 'A very beautiful book.' Sunday Times. 'All her books are masterpieces. Precious Bane is perhaps the biggest masterpiece of all. She has genius.' Bookman. 2nd Impression. 7s. 6d. net

H. G. WELLS

The Dream

A story of to-day told from the standpoint of two thousand years hence. 'The richest, most generous and absorbing thing that Mr. Wells has given us for years and years.' Daily News. 'A great book; one of the greatest, if not the greatest, that Mr. Wells has ever written.' Everywoman. 3rd Impression. 7s. 6d. net

VIVIAN CROCKETT

Messalina

This is the career of Messala's notorious daughter, the wife of the Roman Emperor Claudius, put into novel form by an Australian writer. 7s. 6d. net

HENRY JAMES FORMAN

Sudden Wealth

Mr. Forman has taken for the theme of his new novel the sudden possession of great wealth and its effect on character. A realistic study of a modern American family who are suddenly plunged into riches.

7s. 6d. net

HARVEY O'HIGGINS

Julie Cane

The story of a girl whose father was an unsuccessful grocer, a queer, shabby, eccentric little man, but a man of vision none the less. He takes Julie's education in hand with surprising results. 'There is the warmth of real life in this memorable novel.' Times Literary Supplement. 'A masterpiece of detached observation and analysis of human nature.' Glasgow Herald.

7s. 6d. net

MARTIN ARMSTRONG

The Bazaar: stories. 7s. 6d. net

The Puppet Show: stories. 6s. 6d. net

Reviewing The Bazaar, the Manchester Guardian says, 'An admirable collection of short stories. Mr. Armstrong's standard is high, his taste exacting.'

SINCLAIR LEWIS

Main Street

'A most searching and excellent piece of work.' JOHN GALSWORDY. Popular Edition. 3s. 6d. net

Babbitt

'One of the greatest novels I have read for a long time.' H. G. WELLS. 'Mr. Lewis's masterly study.' The Times. Popular Edition. 3s. 6d. net

Our Mr. Wrenn

The story of a meek little bachelor, a person of inconspicuous ready-made suits, and a small unsuccessful moustache. His voyage to England and his adventures there. 7s. 6d. net

The Trail of the Hawk

The story of 'Hawk' Ericson, student, mechanic, pioneer, aviator. How he found himself, found his career, and found his woman. 'An epic in prose.' S. P. B. MAIS. 7s. 6d. net

Free Air

A romance al fresco—the tale of a garage mechanic who in a rickety little car sets out in pursuit of the pretty girl in the Rolls-Royce over prairie and perilous mountain from a farming village to the blue Pacific.

7s. 6d. net

VERE HUTCHINSON

Sea Wrack

'A novel which stands out fresh, bold, clean and vibrant with emotion far above most of the literature of its class.' Daily Graphic. 'Miss Hutchinson is to be congratulated on a remarkable and powerful novel.' S. P. B. MAIS. 4th and Cheaper Edition. 3s. 6d. net

Great Waters

A romance of the sea, of adventure and piracy in the period 1750-60. 'A remarkable book. Remarkable for the insight displayed in a story of pirates, of terrible seas and of ships.' Sunday Times. 2nd Impression.

7s. 6d. net

FANNIE HURST

*Lummo*x

A novel by America's leading short-story writer. 'This is not only the best novel we have had from America for at least a decade; it is one of the best novels in English we have read for years, and may easily, in the future, mark an epoch in our fiction as distinctly as did Esther Waters.' Observer. 3rd Impression. 7s. 6d. net

LOUIS COUPERUS

The Hidden Force

A story of Java and of that strange, intangible, but subtly potent force which militates against white men and their efforts in the East. 'This novel is well worthy of the author, and it is admirably translated.' Daily Telegraph. Translated by Alex. Teixeira de Mattos. 7s. 6d. net

AINO KALLAS

The White Ship

'Mme. Kallas is Finnish. She writes of her own people and her own country, a tragic people in a strange seagirt setting. Her method is singularly simple, clear, and direct; her sense of atmosphere remarkable.' From the Foreword by JOHN GALSWORTHY. 7s. 6d. net

The Home Maker

A solution of the problem of the married woman of exceptional business ability. 'Will rank with the best novels of the year. Miss Canfield deserves every ounce of praise we can give her.' Daily Express. 2nd Impression. 7s. 6d. net

Raw Material

Here Miss Canfield has attempted a new form, not a short story, not even a French conte, but a presentation of the raw material of life from which novels are made. 7s. 6d. net

E. L. GRANT WATSON

The Desert Horizon

A novel of the Australian desert by one who is acquainted with its every mood. 'The sights and sounds, and the very smell of the sun-baked country are brought before us.' Daily News. 7s. 6d. net

Shadow and Sunlight

The story of an Englishman living among the natives of the South Seas. 'Really a very fine book.' Morning Post. 7s. 6d. net
